

The land area of the Earth is approximately equal to the total surface of Mars.

The land area of Africa is about the same as the total surface of the Moon.